

The 2008 vintage produced excellent quality grapes and was about a week earlier than normal, although not as early as 2007. The summer was warm, but not hot, and during harvest the days were sunny & the nights cool. As temperatures were not excessive, ripening was pretty even resulting in natural acidity and good development of flavours. This blend is synonymous with Margaret River where it excels, and under the screw cap closure the wine will drink well for at least 2 years.
